Are the Results of the Revolution That Has Upset Mexico.

Where Carranza's Plundering Representative Shows His Hand.

Slur Upon the Priesthood and Church Absolutely Undeserved.

CARRANZA WORK IN YUCATAN

The revolution in Mexico brought the Constitutionalist into power. Or rather, the revolution plus the good services of Washington achieved that result. The Constitutionalist is pledged to reform. Their watchword and motto cry has been reform. They have stood forth as the saviors of the people. They are now beginning to put their ideas into practice. They are seeking to fulfill their pledges to the Mexican working people. The State of Yucatan has been the conspicuous ground for the inauguration of their work. Gen. Salvador Alvarado is Governor of that place. The visit of that gentleman to New York in connection with the building of a proposed Government railroad has been the occasion for an article on his work in the New York City of May 28. Modesto C. Holland, a "full blooded Indian," financial agent of the Mexican Government in New York, whose picture and opinions have appeared frequently in the Call, is the narrator of Alvarado's achievements. So far, it is declared, the following specific reforms have been attained in Yucatan: An agrarian law has been adopted, returning the land to the people; a modern department of agriculture has been founded and agents sent out to educate the planters; the land for adults and children has been established; lecture courses have also been begun; the public service corporations are to be taken over by the Government and a $50,000,000 corporation has been formed to build a State owned railroad from the Pacific to the Caribbean; "home rule" is being granted to the cities and the villages of the State. With all of this, we understand, President Carranza is thoroughly in accord.

"Before the revolution," it is stated, "there was a literally less than a hundred schools in the whole State. Now there are 2,400. These schools have taken the place of the churches. Formerly there was a priest upon every hacienda, but now there is a school. The churches have been closed for some time, and at first a few of the people were surprised that the heavens did not fall. But as nothing very dreadful happened, they soon became accustomed to the change. The priests have of course opposed the reforms at every step, and have been allied with reactionary interests."

This is indeed interesting—if it at all be true. Some of the reforms noted are certainly desirable. There is much reason to suspect that they are in the main reforms merely on paper. The jump from 100 schools to 2,400 in so short a time is rather dubious, to say the least. The $50,000,000 corporation will have to show the whence and whither of its finances before we can unreservedly rejoice in it. Revolutions have always acted in this peculiar way. They have promised much to the people of the "lower" classes; they have in the first few years of success and power endeavored to fulfill their promises and partially done so. But when a few more years have rolled by it has been found that their program has been of injury rather than of assistance to the poor. So do we fear will prove the much touted change in Mexico. What great sufferings that revolution has caused to the workers in that stricken country we already have in part been told.

The slur upon the priesthood and the church is absolutely undeserved. It is there that Carranza's New York financial representative shows his hand. With the economic reforms in Yucatan the church in itself has nothing to do. With the particular manner of carrying out agricultural activities it can scarcely be held responsible. It has not been in charge of the Government. In the manner of education it has been handicapped for over a hundred years. That is always forgotten in the stories told today of Mexico. The church can not be under indictment for abuses in Mexico. She has been hampered in her work at every step. She has been prohibited from carrying on the work of education. "The Yucatan," runs the headline in the article from which we have quoted. That is a foolish and malignant statement of the case.

The noted traveler, Alexander von Humboldt, in his Essay Political, has something to say of conditions among the laboring people before the church was overpowered in Mexico. He writes from his own experiences in that country. It may be pardonable to state his phrase again—a phrase which has no doubt been quoted before. "Nowhere," he says, "do the common people enjoy the fruits of their labor more than in Mexico. The Indian laborer is poor but he is free. His condition is much preferable to that of the peasantry of a large part of northern Europe." And Humboldt, who gives the words of Humboldt in this regard, has this to add: "The Indian laborers were not slaves. There was no alta in Mexico; no compulsory labor in mines; no labor without wages. The Indian who did not like the mine, or its administrator, or its wages, was perfectly free to go elsewhere—or to stay out altogether."

The true story of Mexico should be told. It will not throw a shadow in any way upon the Catholic church as certain gentlemen seek so painfully to do. It will show that the church has brought a light to the laborer, and that this was destroyed only by those who sought to destroy the church. We fear that the representatives of the Carranza Government should learn better the history of their country. We can not believe from past knowledge that their "reforms" will last. We know well how they stand on the question of the church in Mexico. And we know even better how strenuously Washington strove to help them to that power, by which they have been able to put their idea as to the church into practice. C. B. of C. V.

MASS FOR IRISH MARTYRS.

On Tuesday morning, June 20, a memorial requiem mass will be celebrated at St. Mary Magdalene's church in honor of the Irish revolutionists who fell fighting or were cruelly executed in connection with the recent uprising in Ireland. Permission has been granted by Bishop O'Donoghue for this mass, which will be strictly a religious observance. Bishop O'Donoghue will be present and all sympathizers with the cause of Irish freedom are expected to attend. The memory of the men who were executed by the British Government in Ireland is being thus commemorated in the churches throughout the country. In Chicago memorial masses were celebrated in not less than forty churches this week.

REGULATES DANCING.

The Right Rev. Denis O'Donoghue, Bishop of Louisville, this week received notice of the decree made by Pope Benedict XV. forbidding dancing at all picnics, entertainments and social functions given by Catholic churches or by societies or organizations for the benefit of any religious institutions under Catholic auspices. The decree, which merely is the universal enforcement of the legislation of the Third Plenary Council of Baltimore, was dated at Rome, March 31. Dancing as such is not forbidden, but discipline requires all persons who had in any sort of dancing the occasion of sin to refrain from the practice. The decree from Rome now gives the prohibition the highest sanction of the church and makes its enforcement compulsory upon all Bishops and priests throughout the whole world. Bishop O'Donoghue said Tuesday night that he would immediately direct all pastors in the diocese to see that the decree is strictly enforced.

FATHER GASSER INJURED.

The Rev. Father Alphonse Gasser, assistant priest at St. Martin's church, was hit by an automobile at Shelby and Broadway Wednesday evening and seriously injured. Father Gasser had been talking to Magistrate Frank Dacher, and when he started across Broadway he was struck and thrown about forty feet. He was at once removed to St. Anthony's Hospital and it was some time before he regained consciousness. Upon examination it was found he had suffered a slight concussion of the brain, two scalp wounds, his right forearm fractured and that he had a deep bruise on the right thigh. The machine was driven by Frank Henderson, an automobile salesman, and of course "was going slow."

VALUABLE LIBRARY ADDITION.

Some valuable gifts have been made to the Catholic University Library by a generous and scholarly priest, among them an autograph letter of Daniel O'Connell and a youthful Irish poem of the Liberator on the antiquities of Ireland, two letters of Parnell, two rare volumes of old Irish music, and the very rare history of Galway by James Hardiman. From the same generous source have come twelve large boxes of valuable books, forming a distinct addition to the library.

BRITISH BREAK PLIGHTED WORD

The Irish World received this week the last letter written by Patrick H. Pearse, President of the Irish republic. It was written to his mother, whom he was not allowed to see before his death, in which he said in part: "I just received holy communion. I am happy, except for the great grief of parting from you. This is the death I should have asked for if God had given me the choice of all deaths—to die a soldier's death for Ireland and for freedom. We have done right. People will say hard things of us now, but later on will praise us. Do not be grieved for all this, but think of it as a sacrifice which God asked of me and of you."

Prisoners have been taken from nearly every county in Ireland and on June 2 about 1,700 were still confined in English prisons. The list of names is curious as shown in the class and character of the revolutionists. In Richmond Barracks was confined a Count and Countess, an Alderman, an editor, a Marquis and several tramway workers. Justice Bereton, of Athlone, who was made a prisoner by the revolutionists at a battle near the Four Courts, made the following statement after his release: "The rebels were not out for massacre, for burning, or for loot. They were out for war, observing all the rules of civilized warfare and fighting clean. They fought the gentlemen. They had possession of the restaurants stocked with spirits, yet there was no sign of drinking. I was informed that they were all total abstainers. They treated their prisoners with the utmost courtesy and they have proved by their conduct what they were men of education, incapable of brutality."

Interest in the contest to send the two most popular members of the Twin City League to the world's baseball series is becoming quite pronounced and votes are being cast pretty lively for the different favorites. Among those receiving votes this week were Merlin Hogan, of the Champs; Ray Haragan, of the Bertrands; Eddie Steinbock, the League Secretary; Bob Kaiser, of Trinity; Pete Morris, of Mackin; J. Scully, of Olympics; Bobby Burns, scorer, and others. The two receiving the highest number of votes will be sent with all expenses paid to the world's series, the Kentucky Irish American having made this offer due to its interest in the Twin City since its inception.

Former Congressman Bourke Cockran, of New York, addressed a meeting at the Metropolitan Opera House in Philadelphia for the benefit of the Irish relief fund. Michael J. Ryan, President of the United Irish League, presided, and upwards of $15,000 was contributed at the meeting for the cause of the widows and orphans of the revolutionists executed in Ireland. Mr. Ryan has been President of the official Redmond organization in this country. Mr. Cockran has been Vice President of the United Irish League, but he called upon members of the Irish race throughout the world to denounce the policy of reconciliation of Ireland to the "alien conquerors." A policy into which he confessed he had been beguiled by illusory hopes. He advised casting overboard the home rule policy and the leadership of John Redmond.

The railway and tram companies of Ireland have discharged all employees suspected of membership in the Sinn Fein, the Gaelic League or the Irish Volunteers. The Thomas Lipson chain of tea stores have done likewise. The shipping companies have taken the same stand. Gen. Sir John Maxwell issued an order forbidding all processions, political meetings, printing or athletic games or other sports without the written permission of the military authorities. There is a scarcity of sugar and tea in Dublin, where the prices of these commodities are almost prohibitive. He starved children in rags are driven from the streets by the police.

Public Sentiment in This Country
Against England's Domineering Policy.

EXECUTION OF IRISH UNJUST

That there is an anti-English sentiment growing rapidly in the United States there is no doubt, and it is believed that knowledge of this has caused President Wilson to use strong words in his latest message to England concerning the riding of our mails and interference with American shipping. Despite the efforts of the paid pro-English press it was not until the outbreak of the war that the masses of the American people had no love for England and that they were utterly opposed to the "hands across the sea" policy advocated by Henry Watkinson and others of the Carnegie Lecture Bureau. The plea that England was the friend of little nations, etc., fooled some of the people, who believed that John Bull was interested in Belgium for the latter's good, but the policy of the British Government in its murder of the Irish revolutionists exposed the known brutality which it has always practiced in dealing with weaker nations or individuals. The Christian Herald, a Protestant publication, published at the Bible House in New York City, pretty near furnishes the keynote of public opinion in this country in the following in its latest issue:

History records few acts so stupid and so unjust as the recent wholesale execution of the leaders of the Irish rebellion. Acts as unjust have been committed; acts which were in themselves as stupid. But the stupidity of this act at this particular time is immeasurable. England and her allies have been trying to make the world believe that they stand for a higher and truer type of freedom than do their enemies. Sir Edward Grey, in a long and careful interview reprinted in a recent number of the New York Times, states this claim seriously and earnestly: That England is fighting for an international method that shall end all war and for a true and real type of liberty. In claiming that this has been the spirit of Britain, Sir Edward appears for the moment to have forgotten the Transvaal, not to go farther back than the present century.

There are many peculiarly ugly and distressing features in the whole regrettable affair. First of all, the men might have been granted the consideration usually extended to prisoners of war. This was desirable from every point of view, rather than to remove them with swift and savage slaughter.

Another shocking element was the youth and pure idealism of the victims. Patrick Pearse, President of the short-lived republic, was schoolmaster, author and poet. Joseph Plunkett, twenty-five years old, was a poet and editor, a man of unusual attainments as a scholar. Daly was but twenty-four years old. William Pearse, thirty years old, was tutor and sculptor. O'Hanrahan was also an editor. F. Sheehy Skeffington, one of the victims, seems to have been entirely guiltless of participation in the present rebellion. He was also an editor, and had resided for some time in America. Worst of all was the admission in Parliament that Skeffington and two other journalists had been executed "without the knowledge of the military authorities, and before martial law was actually in operation." Joseph Plunkett was married a few hours before his execution, his bride wearing widow's weeds. Heartrending stories are told of the anguish of mothers and wives of the executed men. And many signs point to altogether unreasonable severity in hastening the executions.

The unwisdom of the British Government's harsh methods with the Irish rebels lies only in the fact that it lessens her international influence for justice, liberty and peace, but that it rears its head and eargrinders in the people of her dependencies the very thing she tries to kill. It would seem that statesmen ought to realize by this time that you can not kill a movement by killing its leaders. This is what Herod and Nero tried to do with Christianity, but the blood that fell from the necks of their victims became the seed from which hosts of new believers arose, and in less than three centuries, instead of the Roman Empire having conquered Christianity Christianity had conquered the empire. The method has been tried with scholars as well as with saints, but history shows that you do not kill a scientific or sociological principle by killing the men who teach it. And what is true of saints and scholars is true of patriots. To kill them simply produces more patriots. Of course nations and races have been subdued and exterminated by wholesale slaughter or overwhelming military conquest, but to kill the spirit of revolt by killing the leaders of revolt is a thing that can not be done.

As has been clearly pointed out recently by several scholarly writers, the secret of universal peace and brotherhood will come by expanding the spirit of patriotism, broadening it from province to nation, from nation to confederations of nations, till it shall embrace all the world.

England has missed a rare chance of sublimating Irish patriotism to this broad and high purpose. Her troubles with Ireland are more acute than ever. And she has added a score of earnest faces and staunch souls to the already crowded gallery of Irish martyr-heroes.

The Orpheus Society, a new and coming musical organization of Louisville, will give Gilbert and Sullivan's beautiful operetta, "Trial by Jury," next Tuesday evening at St. Martin's Hall. Shelby and Gray, for the benefit of St. Agnes' school, a free institution conducted by the Passionist Fathers in connection with the Sacred Heart Retreat on the Newburg road. As the operetta is made up in but one act there will be other musical features of the highest character on the programme, including solos and mixed quartettes, and every one attending may be assured of a most enjoyable evening. There will also be a recitation of the programme of a most entertaining character which will not be the least of the evening's attractions. The musical programme will be under the direction of Mrs. Elizabeth Chase Bohn, ably assisted at the piano by her sister, Miss Nellie Chase. "Trial by Jury" was given under Mrs. Bohn's direction at the Knights of Columbus hall two years ago with great success.

TRINITY'S INITIATION.

The best and most successful initiation conducted by Trinity Council took place Monday night in their new auditorium, Baxter and Morton avenues, which was well filled with members from both Mackin and Trinity to witness the ceremony. The degree team from Mackin Council did some excellent work in conferring the first, second and third degrees, as did also Trinity's team, who had charge of the fourth degree. Nothing but praise was heard on all sides of the method of handling this large class by the degree team. After the initiation it was announced that on next Monday night "get acquainted smoker" would be given in honor of the new members, at which all are expected to be present. At the same time the prizes won by the "Boosters" team, captained by Ed Zehnder, will be awarded.

FRIENDS ARE ELATED.

The legion of schoolmates and friends of John F. Rees were elated when news reached here Tuesday from Washington that he had passed a successful final physical examination for admission to the United States Naval Academy. Young Rees is the son of John N. Rees, of the Evening Post, and was graduated from the Manual Training School with high honors. He had already passed all other examinations and will enter at once on his studies.

THE LOCAL RACES NEXT YEAR

Political history is being made at Chicago this week and the date marks the death or near death of both Roosevelt and the Progressive party, his personal possession. As we go to press it appears that the Republican nomination lies between Hughes and Roosevelt. If the former is given the nomination then the Progressive party will nominate the Rough Rider and pursue the wrecking policy of four years ago. Then next November will be the date of the death of the Bull Moosers. In the event that Roosevelt is chosen by the Republican convention then the Progressive party will be officially dead from the time of the nomination, but its demise will be postponed until next November. Thursday morning it was even money betting by the bookmakers that Roosevelt would be the Republican nominee and Hughes was second choice in the betting at six to five. The shorter odds against Teddy are accounted for by the fact that Democrats were betting against him getting the nomination, realizing that if they lost there would still be a silver lining in the cloud, as they know he would be an easy mark for Wilson in the general election.

Conservative Democrats of the political game see Roosevelt's finish no matter what the outcome and believe that he is following the same course pursued by Bryan in the Democratic party, and which finally resulted in his ruin politically. Roosevelt's dictatorial policy of attempting to bully the Hughes supporters and the convention managers is the same tactics pursued by Bryan. Just a few years ago a Democrat in any State in the Union to take issue with Bryan or to be entitled to consideration as a candidate, his first qualification being proof that he had supported the Boy Orator in 1896. This was possible because of the support of the Old Guard do not believe in a one-man party and will scratch him with a vengeance. The noisy rabble now marching through the streets of Chicago cheering for Teddy and of not much assistance in an election.

Turning to local politics, many Democrats believe with the election of Wilson assured a nomination in the party next year is equivalent to election. In this connection several Majority bees are buzzing, among them being Ben Washer, ex-Mayor Head, Sheriff Charles Cronan, Peter Lee Atherton, Caldwell Norton and James B. Camp. County Attorney Scott Bullitt has been picked as the one best bet, following out the original prediction made in these columns over two years ago, but thus far he has turned a deaf ear to the suggestion. Messrs. Washer, Camp and Head have shown their strength with the public in elections, the same applying to Sheriff Cronan, who in his one start ran a bang up race, leading the other first starters in both the city and county. It is believed that Charlie Foster on account of his record will have no opposition for Jailer, the same applying to Scott Bullitt for County Attorney. Loraine Mix is expected to try conclusions with Judge Sam Greene for County Judge, while leading politicians say a strong dark horse is being groomed for the other judgeship at stake, Judge of the Police Court, against Judge Boldrick. Col. John J. Barry is pretty near a sure starter for Sheriff, while Al Emier is talked of for County Assessor.

There are three County Commissioners to be chosen next fall and four of the present Magistrates have been mentioned as entries—Squire John O'Brien, Squire Frank Dacher, Squire Ben Schuman and Squire Charles Wheeler. There are two members of the Board of Education to be chosen, and as the action of the board in its refusal to allow a discount on its share of the taxes public opinion will be against endorsing members of the present board. One sure starter against the incumbents is Ben Kling, who made such a memorable race two years ago, and he is already in the field.

NAZARETH.

The Nazareth Academy commencement will be held next Thursday, and all former pupils and friends of that famous institution will be welcome. A special train will leave Union Station, Tenth and Broadway, at 7 o'clock, morning, and will return in the early evening.

THAT LITTLE GREEN ISLE.

Never in the history of the world has there been so much kindly consideration shown to the Irish race as recently. It was not a question as to the good sense or otherwise of the revolution, as the Buffalo Union and Times well says, but rather the manner in which the situation was handled by the British Government. For instance, almost every daily paper in the United States spoke a friendly word. Many of them went to unusual length to show their disapproval of the military regime, and all voiced the thought that, in this day at least, government by oppression can not be a success and must not be tolerated. Over all the world, even in England itself, the word goes out that Ireland deserves better, and that at least the day of retribution is at hand. Let us hope so. It has been a long night for Ireland. Years came and went, cycle followed cycle, even century followed century, but still ever the cup of the enemy, rich and rosy as it looked, was dashed to the ground, and fidelity to the faith and fatherland dominated and was preserved. What a glorious history! What a story of heritage! What a stupendous birthright the Celt can look to—a page without a blemish, a race true to God and country, a record matchless and imperishable! For such a result every member of the Celtic race can find a place of honor and be thanked. Bishop and Archbishop, priest and doctor, lawyer and statesman, soldier and civilian, skilled and unskilled, poor and rich, gentle and simple, all have their names on the roll of honor. But beyond all, in the order of men and in the vanguard of God's distinction, has been, as it still is and ever will be until time shall be no more—the motherhood of the race, the sentinels and protectors and angels of the fireside and the home! To them we owe the history and the devotion of these most loyal people of the church and heroes of the world. To them we lift our swords in deference and our hearts in affection, and in our inmost souls reverence as we pray God save Ireland!

TIRELESS FANATICS.

The leaders of the Prohibition party have sent us a communication announcing that they have inaugurated a pledge campaign to get 5,000,000 voters in the United States to vote against any party or any candidate who does not openly favor national prohibition. As the Indiana Catholic insists, these men are monomaniacs, bad Americans and fanatics now as they always have been. A man has a right to be in favor of prohibition if he believes in it. We have no fault to find with him for that, but there are before this country now other issues far more important, and any day we are likely to have a situation where still more vital issues will be before the public. Should a good American citizen, who is right on all the other great issues, be defeated or voted against because he doesn't subscribe to prohibition? The most temperate men in this country, men whose lives are models of sobriety and who are public benefactors of the first rank, don't believe in prohibition. It is hard for any man who is intelligent and not a fanatic to believe in something that has proven a flat failure everywhere it has been tried. We don't believe the prohibitionists will get 5,000,000 bad Americans to ignore all the other issues and go crazy enough to do the bidding of a bunch of rabid fanatics. Prohibition prevails in Turkey, but in no Christian or civilized country. The best, purest, truest, most moral people in the world have used wines and beers in moderation for generations and they are today morally and intellectually the superiors of the prohibition fanatics in the United States.

WHAT WE NEED.

It is particularly unpropitious just now, when the country is confronted by threatening signs and uneasy portents on all sides, for men to engage in sowing the poisonous seed of suspicion and the feeling of religious hatred. There was never a day when the busy spreader of religious dissension was more a public enemy. There was never a period in all our history when it seemed more vital to our continued existence that all classes and conditions of Americans, embracing every race, faith, color, idea, ideal and aspiration, should be made to realize the common duty and the common destiny of all Americans. Yet there are those who disseminate hurtful charges of disloyalty with the sole purpose of implicating those not of their religion in supposedly unpatriotic designs—their shafts being mostly aimed at Catholics. It is not important who holds the office; but it is of immense importance to the republic that the methods by which men are elected to office, or are defeated, should be open, legitimate, fair and American.

FRIENDS OF FREEDOM.

The Friends of Irish Freedom are sweeping the country. The New York Gaelic American reports that branches are being formed everywhere, and men and women who have not touched Irish organizations for years and who only took a languid interest in any kind of national movement are flocking by the thousands to the colors. England hoped by a policy of sternness and repression in Ireland to terrorize the Irish people at home and to convince the Irish in America of the hopelessness of attempting to do anything for a cause that she fondly hoped was lost. But the Irish are always at their best when fighting against heavy odds, and England will be disappointed again. The Irish at home are angry, while in America they are aroused as they have never been in living memory. In nearly all the cities meetings are being held and resolutions passed denouncing the murder of the Irish prisoners of war by England and pledging undying fealty to the cause of Irish independence.

THEY CAN NOT HURT.

The New York Advocate, evidently with Mayor Mitchell in mind, observes that there are some "Catholics" who actually imagine they are doing a very bold thing when they attack the church to which they nominally belong, and incidentally think that by so doing they are showing a liberal spirit which can not fail to commend them to their non-Catholic acquaintances. It is quite possible, however, that their non-Catholic acquaintances may look upon their attitude as cowardly, if not contemptible to a marked degree. The man who will not believe his professions whatever they may be. At any rate, the church that has met and survived misrepresentation and persecution for two thousand years is not going to strike her colors to the yelping curs of criticism within her fold.

Mayor Mitchell's wild charges were easily disproved. The youthful Mayor's effort to begot issues in the investigation of the New York Charity Board by attacking "correlationists" was nasty but futile. The men he stood for were indicted and he narrowly escaped the same fate. John Purroy made a fool of himself and ended his public career.

The Brooklyn Tablet is of the opinion that Mayor Mitchell has "lost his head." At this end of the line, says the Buffalo Union and Times, "the opinion seems to be that the young man not only has lost his head, but every particle of self-respect." From which there will be no dissent.

A society lady inquirer of the Catholic Advance what is the best thing to do for a cold at this time of the year. The reverend editor advises her to go South, or if a society lady to put on more clothes. His prescription looks good.

His Grace Archbishop Messmer, of Milwaukee, has consented to act as an Honorary Vice President of the Irish Relief Fund Committee, organized in New York and now spreading throughout the country.

The latest English order-in-council places another heavy handicap on American exports. With the few exemptions granted the United States will suffer most. That's "hands across the sea" for you.

June 18 is Trinity Sunday. If you do not make your Easter duty by that day you will find yourself "outside the breastworks."

John X. Kinberger, a former Louisville boy, but now located in Seattle, was in St. Louis this week on a business trip and will be in Louisville next week on a visit to friends and relatives.

Misses Marie Weck, Mary Fisher and Katharine Best were with the Neighborhood Club when they surprised Mr. and Mrs. Edward Schmitt at their home in Lafayette township, near New Albany.

The marriage of Miss Anna Wecker and John M. Arnold was solemnized Wednesday morning at St. Peter's church, in the presence of many friends and relatives, who showered bride and groom with congratulations.

Gwynn C. Bush and bride, who was Miss Mary Cain, have returned from their wedding trip. They were quietly married last week at the Sacred Heart rectory, the Rev. Father Walsh performing the ceremony. The groom is an engineer on the L. H. and St. L. railroad, and his bride is a popular young lady of the West End.

Frederick Wilhelm Stengel entertained a number of friends with a sing party and luncheon in his new home, 4137 West Market street, on Thursday evening. His bowling team-mates surprised him by the presentation of their interest in a silver loving cup which had been won by the club in the recent bowling tournament.

Every week the Kentucky Irish American receives unsigned articles for publication. There is nothing objectionable in these, but writers should bear in mind the fact that signatures are absolutely necessary in all newspaper offices. Persons who desire their notices to appear must sign them. Surely you would not write to a friend without signing your name.

Invitations have been issued for the marriage of Miss Emily Goss and Oscar Feldkamp, which will be solemnized with a nuptial mass at St. Vincent de Paul's church on the morning of June 26. The Rev. Father Thome, the pastor, will perform the ceremony. Miss Goss is well known in German Catholic society circles, and the groom-elect is a popular member of the traffic squad of the local police department.

EWING—READ.

NOTRE DAME.

The University of Notre Dame has secured, as the beginning of a great collection of curiosities to be housed in its beautiful new library, a large inscribed clay cylinder from Nebuchadnezzar, King of Babylon. This cylinder, which has 145 lines written by Nebuchadnezzar himself, gives an account of his building of the walls of Babylon which were one of the wonders of the ancient world, of the temples which Herodotus describes so elegantly, and of the reconstruction of the great Tower of Babel, which many scholars have identified with the Biblical Tower of Babylon. The cylinder was found in the ancient city of Marada, a suburb of Babylon, in the walls of the temple where the great King had buried it as a perpetual record of his great building operations.

Michael Hogan, son of Walter Hogan and nephew of Police Captain Michael Hogan, is ill at St. Mary and Elizabeth Hospital with an attack of typhoid fever.

Miss Carrie Bader will entertain with a linen shower at her home in Parkland this week in honor of Miss Aileen Zix, who is to be married to Allen T. Long.

A wedding of interest will take place at Holy Cross church on Thursday morning, June 15, when Miss Agnes L. Weisenberger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. Weisenberger, will become the bride of John H. Stagger, of Norwood, Ohio.

ORPHAN PICNIC.

At the meeting of the Catholic Orphan Society of its friends Monday evening at K. of C. Hall the roll call showed the following parishes to be represented: Cathedral, St. Agnes, St. Ann's, Blessed Sacrament, St. Bridget's, St. Cecilia's, St. Charles Borromeo, St. Francis of Assisi, Holy Cross, Holy Name, St. John's, St. Louis Bertrand, St. Mary Magdalene, St. Michael's, Church of Our Lady, St. Philip Neri, Sacred Heart and St. Aloysius. Nearly every English speaking congregation was recorded as being present. Chairman Charles J. O'Connor stated that the grounds were looking more beautiful than ever and will be in tip-top condition for the holding of the picnic on the Fourth of July. Chairman Edward Etheridge, of the Butten Committee, stated that the next Sunday St. John's, St. Bridget's and St. Cecilia's congregation would be visited.

Very Rev. George H. Schumann, pastor of St. John's church, was present, and in pleasing language congratulated the society on the good work in which it is engaged, and said that he found himself wondering, listening to the selection of numerous committees, whether the society was preparing to take care of an army on the Fourth of July. If he were asked how the society should reach the hope that it would reach the amount of one of the recent war loans; at any rate, he knew for a certainty that the money would be expended for a nobler purpose. Father Schumann assured the workers that the clergy were heartily back of the projected picnic, and it would have their unstinted encouragement and support. St. Vincent's Orphan Asylum was formerly located in St. John's parish and, therefore, it appealed particularly to him. Another general meeting will be held Monday night, when it is hoped there will be an increased attendance.

CLOSING EXERCISES.

The closing exercises of St. Philip Neri's school will be held in Windthorst Hall, Floyd and Magnolia, on Sunday, June 8. A drama, "Heroes of the Revolution," will be portrayed by the children of the higher grades. There will be drills, songs, minutes and patriotic recitations by pupils of the lower grades, and a finale with the "Star Spangled Banner" sung by the entire school. The performance will begin at 7:45 p. m. and general admission will be twenty-five cents, with reserved seats fifteen cents extra.

BERTRAND MINSTRELS.

The Bertrand Club will give their annual vaudeville and minstrel at Bertrand Hall on Monday and Tuesday evenings, June 19 and 20, the members being now busy rehearsing for the performance. Among those who will take part are George Riggs and Ed Wolfe as the funny end men, while Louis Walsh, Emmet Hanrahan, Leo Reilly and Tommy Riggs are on the programme in singing specialties. Admission twenty-five cents and reserved seats thirty-five cents, the latter now being on sale.

SUFFERERS FRACTURED SKULL.

Patrick Flaherty, residing at 109 North Twelfth street, fell on the curb at Thirtieth and Market early Wednesday evening and suffered a fractured skull. He was seen to cross the street from St. Patrick's church and then fall backward on his head. He was removed to the City Hospital in an unconscious condition, and the last report gave small hope for his recovery. Mr. Flaherty is sixty-two years old.

CLOSING EXERCISES.

The closing exercises of St. Augustine's school, for which an exceptionally meritorious programme has been arranged, will be held next Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in St. Augustine's Hall, 1308 West Broadway. There will be choruses, drills and other interesting numbers. Rev. Francis Felt, the pastor, will deliver the address and Miss Lydia Johnson will preside at the piano. An invitation is extended to the friends of the church and the public to be present.

PRAISEWORTHY.

The boys of the San Francisco Youth's Directory, a diocesan home for neglected, friendless and homeless boys, under the direction of Rev. D. O. Crowley, are preparing to go into camp at St. Joseph Institute at Rutherford, Napa county. In addition to his own boys Father Crowley will take a limited number of deserving poor boys, who need an outing for a month or six weeks. Father Crowley is known to many in Louisville, where he visited recently as the guest of his nephew, Very Rev. T. L. Crowley, Prior of St. Louis Bertrand's church.

YEARS REST LIGHT.

The Right Rev. J. F. Regis Canevin, Bishop of Pittsburgh, on Monday celebrated his sixty-third birthday anniversary, receiving congratulations from Catholics and non-Catholics near and far. Bishop Canevin was ordained in June, 1879, and was consecrated in February, 1903. His three score years rest lightly upon him and he is one of the most active of the American hierarchy.

SEEKS ONLY PEACE.

Cardinal Gasparri, Papal Secretary of State, in an interview with a representative of the Associated Press, declared that the Pope was influenced in his peace efforts solely by a desire to stop the "suicide of Europe." "The Holy Father," said the Cardinal, "in his most ardent desire for peace, has no particular

OUTING AND PICNIC.

The second annual outing and picnic of the Shelby Democratic Club will be given on the grounds of the Klondike outing camp on June 18 and will be an all-day affair. Magistrate Frank Dacher and a hustling committee are making preparations for a record-breaking success and promise turtle soup that will be appreciated. The proceeds will be donated to the Christmas tree fund.

FISH TRUST BUSTER.

The friends of Ernest L. German, chief clerk in the local I. C. railroad offices, say that he has done his share in bringing down the price of food, especially for those who are fish lovers, and in doing so has aroused the enmity of fish dealers. In a recent trip to Leavenworth Mr. German whiled the time away by fishing and succeeded in landing forty-three bass, seven speckled trout, ten pike, one monster channel cat and many other fish too numerous to mention. His generous distribution of brain food has kept his friends supplied for the past several days and fish lunches in his neighborhood have been a nightly occurrence.

ORPHANS GET BIG BENEFIT.
The whirlwind campaign in Pittsburgh for the benefit of the Catholic orphans of that city realized the sum of $100,000.

PENTECOST.

This Sunday we celebrate the feast of Pentecost, the birthday of the church. Let all who possibly can prepare themselves for the work reception of the sacraments on that day.

GOLDEN JUBILEE.

Archbishop John J. Keane, of Baltimore, will celebrate on July 2 the fiftieth anniversary of his ordination. The hierarchy and his friends will rejoice and wish him many more happy years.

CORPUS CHRISTI.

The feast of Corpus Christi, celebrated on June 23, is not a holy day of obligation in this country, but is nevertheless a day of special devotion, given up to the celebration of the mystery of the Body of Christ in the Blessed Sacrament.

APOSTLE OF GERMANY.

Wednesday night the Knights of Columbus of Newport celebrated the feast of St. Boniface, the apostle of Germany, the hall being filled. The Arion Maennerchor, under the leadership of Prof. Geier, sang German songs, and Mrs. Katherine Hech, accompanied by Mrs. Grace Mader Mack, was the soloist.

HONOR SACRED HEART.

The month of June is one long feast day of the Sacred Heart, and the feast proper occurs this year on Friday, June 30, the last day of the month. In many of the churches there are special devotions in honor of the Sacred Heart of Jesus during June, but every Christian performs some act of devotion at least privately during that period in honor of the Heart of Jesus.

NEARLY READY.

The new College of the Oblate Fathers in Washington is approaching completion and will be ready for occupancy in September. It is an imposing building of Port Deposit granite, three stories in height, with a roomy basement, and occupies a commanding site at the entrance to the Catholic University, bounded on one side by Fourth street and on the other by Lincoln avenue.

PLANNING A VACATION.

Vacation time will soon be with us. Our people are already planning where they will go and when they will go. The relative advantages of country and seashore, of valley and mountain, are being measured. In our planning let us not forget there can be no vacation from our duty to God. In selecting a place to spend his holiday the Catholic should first satisfy himself that there is a church at the seaside resort or mountain village. One who does not think of his duties as a Catholic in figuring on his vacation can not excuse himself from a mortal sin when he finds there is no Sunday mass at the summer resort. If we forget God in our plans to make life happy we must expect that God will not think of us in his plans for happiness in eternity.—Toledo Record.
